

7750 16th Street, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20012
Phone: (202) 595-9138
Email: fabrangen@yahoo.com
Website: www.fabrangen.org

Yizkor Memorial Booklet

Yom Kippur 2013/5774

In honor of loved family and friends who died within the past year

In Memory of . . .

Cynthia F. "Cindy" Alpert

September 7, 2013

Cindy was incredibly loving, generous, and caring to all her family and all her friends. She was a wonderful friend and a great "aunt" to our daughter. She was known for rescuing dogs, impeccable taste in jewelry, and developing health care policy for the Veterans Administration. We will miss hearing her sweet voice and especially her post-election phone calls.

Arthur, Diane, and Zoë Friedman

Virginia Clouden

August 22, 2013

A wonderful mother, grandmother, and great-grandmother, and my aunt. Took great pride in her family, who all worked to be more in her eyes. She waited for her eldest child to arrive at her bedside, and died on her birthday. What a blessing this lady is in our lives.

Alfred Garshick

May 16, 2013

Engineer, husband, father, grandfather, uncle, and supporter of the Boy Scouts and his synagogue. If you asked his advice on whether or not to pursue a goal or a dream, he would say, "Go ahead and do it. The next few years will pass by whether you do or not."

Ellen Garshick

In Memory of . . .

Laurie Weinberg

February 17, 2013

Mom: born in the Bronx, lost her mother early, married young, kibbutznik, returned, shared Dad's rabbinate. Devoted to siblings, friends gathered over decades, her four kids. Nearly 50 years of marriage; widowhood shortened, but dementia did not really defeat her: funny, kind, sweet, and pleasant to the end. Missed terribly.

Hillel Weinberg

Elicia (Lee) Intrator Wolf

January 14, 2013

In loving memory of Lee Wolf; civic activist, wife, mother, and grandmother. Your kindness, humor, values, and energies continue to inspire us and be part of our lives.

Lloyd Wolf

In Memory of . . .

Dr. Chalon Rodriguez

February 20, 2013

My Papi was a urologist, violinist, Pre-Columbian expert, woodworker, and raconteur. He started medical school at 16, then started over again as a refugee in the US in his 40's. He touched so many lives & had so many friends that over 100 came to his 90th birthday party. He made a difference - not just to his children but in the larger world.

Elena Rodriguez

Dr. Howard S. Smith

May 8, 2013

Howie was my closest childhood friend, a source of humor and inspiration from when we first met in the eighth grade.

David Goldston

Miriam Bloom Tepfer

January 30, 2013

Mom lived many lives between 1918 and 2013. From The Bronx to Brooklyn, NY, to Bowie, MD. Wife, Mother, Grandmother, Great Grandmother, Mentor, Friend, Social worker, Volunteer, Opera lover, Advocate for Yiddishkeit. She was there for you.

Diane Tepfer

In Memory of . . .

Doris F. Graubart

April 27, 2013

Mom was blessed to live 91 years mainly in good health, 57 of them with her adoring husband, Irwin, and to die comfortably. Above all she loved her husband and mother and father (missing them until the end), her sister, her sons and daughter-in-law, and we loved her.

Julian I. Graubart

Sam Kaminsky

March 24, 2013

My Uncle Sammy, my mother's brother, a lifelong Philadelphian, charming, handsome, funny, hard-working, unpretentious, cheerful, devoted husband to his wife of 62 years. Each of his four children spoke in their own distinct voice at his standing-room-only funeral service.

Rhonda Weiss

Shira Keyes

March 2, 2013

Peace and justice, the arts and culture, human rights and civil rights . . . Shira Keyes was small in stature (a pixie of sorts), but big on action and impact. Always creative, involved, passionate and dedicated in her beliefs and friendships. She never stopped moving . . . and moving others towards a better world.

Susan Barocas

In Memory of . . .

Ilene Kutno

May 25, 2013

Ilene was resolutely optimistic, and I so admired that in her, from our New York days 20 years ago to the past several years as the MS robbed her of physical life, but not spirit. Her capacity for living and loving left a beautiful legacy for those of us who loved her.

Susan Barocas

Melvin Levick

October 23, 2012

Always quick to crack a joke (often a Jewish one), my father loved to make people laugh and had a gentle soul. Despite my many years of resistance, he instilled in me a strong sense of Jewish identity, for which I am deeply grateful.

Jeffrey Levick

Edward N. Leavy

July 23, 2013

He lived life to its fullest and was always willing to help those in need, from his work on the Anti-Defamation League and as an immigration lawyer to helping friends and neighbors. He will be missed.

Adam Frank

In Memory of . . .

Lester Locke

January 8, 2013

US Customs-retired (42 yrs.) Active member: Jewish War Veterans, Young Adults with Learning Disabilities, LUV DC, and Occupy DC. Enjoyed Fabringen. His full life included friends, family, his bar mitzvah, travel, and an independent life; no small feat for an individual with learning and developmental disabilities.

Julie and Brookelynn Locke

Edythe Perlman

July 20, 2013

Ahead of her time, Edie played violin at 12. At 23 with Bernie Perlman she started Little Friends Nursery School. A nurturing, permissive mother; we felt loved, safe and free. She adored family. Little great-grandtwins sang Shema and songs to her on July 18th, and drifting, she sang along. Before death she saw and heard angels singing. Died on Shabbat Nahamu.

Diane Perlman

Hannah Levinsky Rath

July 2013

Died at age 90, after a long illness. Hannah was "like a sister" to my Aunt Ruth from when they were young girls until age 90. Together they survived deportation from Germany to Riga Ghetto, five camps, escape from a death march, and remained close friends all of these years.

Bracha Laster